SENATE EXAMINES WEST'S QUALIFICATIONS

SENATE PUBLIC LANDS COMMITTEE CONDUCTS HEARING

WITNESSES TO INCLUDE HUBERT WORK, CHAIRMAN REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE

WILLIAM J. DONOVAN, CLOSE ADVISER OF HOOVER, CALLED FOR THURSDAY

By PAUL R. MALLON
(Unitde Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Dec. 8.—(UP)—The senate public lands committee decided today to conduct an extensive hearing into the qualification of Roy C. West, for the post of secretary of interior and voted unanimously to summon West as first witness Wednesday.

Witnesses, including Hubert Work, chairman fo the republican national chairman of the republican national close adviser of President-elect Herbert Hoover, were called for Thursday morning.

On behalf of Sen. Otis F. Glenn of Illinois, representing West's interest, it was decided the hearings should be public.

Sen. Thomas J. Walsh, promoter of the Teapot Dome oil investigation, took the initiative for the West investigation after President Coolidge formally sent West's nomination to the senate.

West has been holding the interior post since last summer under a recess appointment.

The Thursday witnesses were called at Walsh's request to testify as to whether West acted promptly on protests about the now nullified Salt Creek oil leases to Harry F. Sinclair, central figure in the Teapot Dome affair.

Work was secretary of interior when the Salt Creek lease was renewed. Donovan is assistant attorney general and is credited with writing the opinion in October nullifying the lease. The other witnesses called for Thursday included:

E. C. Finney, assistant secretary of interior; Ernest O. Patterson, solicitor of the interior department; Sen. Arthur Capper of Kansas, and James P. Kem, Kansas City counsel for the White Eagle Oil Co.

After hearing these witnesses, the committee will then investigate further matters, particularly West's connection as attorney for Samuel Insull, Illinois public utilities magnate.

In West's behalf Glenn told the committee West had nothing to hide but welcomed the investigation and desired it should be open to the public. Usually nominations are considered in executive session.

Washington, Dec. 8.—An investigation into the qualification of Roy O. West, of Illinois, President Coolidge's recruit choice for secretary of interior, and attempts by opposing factions in the seven-year-old Boulder Dam fight to agree on a proposed agreement to assure early adoption of the measure, were the most significant developments in congress today.

Sen. King, democrat, Utah, predicted adoption of the bill before the middle of next week.

While there was some outside evidence that his optimistic statement might be accurate, leaders of the opposing faction declined to comment.

Meantime, Sen. Ashurst of Arizona opposed to the measure, began a lengthy speech on the senate floor on his state's view of the dispute.

Washington, Dec. 8. — Congressional attention was centered today on the senate public lands committee where an inquiry was being started into the fitness of Roy O. West of Illinois for the post of secretary of interior, to which he was named last summer by President Coolidge.

While the house was in adjournment over the week-end and the senate was tied up in its Boulder Dam arguments, the senatorial group which has been fighting the power companies, met to organize a fight against West's confirmation by the senate.

Members of the group, mostly democrats, assert West's former legal associations with the power interests warrant a searching inquiry. In his cabinet post he will sit as ex-officio chairman of the federal water power commission having jurisdiction over the nation's water power resources.

Startling Developments In Rothstein Mystery

THINGS HAPPEN WHEN HE FILLS LANTERN WITH GASOLINE

Nampa, Idaho, Dec. 8.—(U.P.)—A four-year-old girl was killed, her sister injured seriously, and 10 other members of the family of W. R. Goodwin narrowly escaped death when Goodwin attempted to fill a lighted lantern with gasoline.

An explosion shook the Goodwin home and flames enveloped the 10 children, all of whom except Verda, 4, and Vera, 6, were able to extinguish the flames. Verda died here in a hospital and little hope was held out today for the life of Vera.

KING GEORGE PASSED SOMEWHAT RESTLESS NIGHT

CONDITION SAID TO BE AS WELL AS COULD BE EXPECTED UNDER CIRCUMSTANCES

TEMPERATURE IS STILL HIGH ON ACCOUNT OF LOCAL CONDITION IN LUNG

By KEITH JONES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Dec. 8.—King George's temperature is still high on account of the local condition in the lung and his general condition is the same, an official bulletin issued by his physicians said today.

The bulletin said:

"The king has had some hours of sleep. His temperature is still raised on account of the local condition in the lung. His general condition is the same.

"Signed, Stanley Hewett, Dawson of Penn."

Sir Stanley Hewett, apothecary-surgeon to the king, spent the night in constant attendance in or near the king's bedchamber and telephoned frequently to the other physicians.

The Prince of Wales, heir to the throne, arrived at Cairo, Egypt, at 8:30 A. M. today in his race to his father's bedside from an interrupted hunting tour in Africa.

His brother, the Duke of Gloucester, third son of the king, has sailed for London on board the fast London mail boat, the Balmoral Castle, from Capetown, South Africa.

The king passed a somewhat restless night and his condition was said to be only as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

The official bulletin issued at Buckingham Palace at 8:15 P. M., yesterday, said:

"His Majesty has not had a restful day. A radiological examination was carried out this afternoon. Neither this, nor exploration by needle, previously carried out, has disclosed any appreciable amount of pleural effusion. The general condition remains unchanged."

Reliable information from the palace today said the physicians at their conference last night discussed the possibility of operating on the king, but decided the royal patient was far too weak.

In an effort to give the king's weak heart a rest, the doctors administered a sedative last night and a definite decision on the future line of treatment was postponed until today.

The mention of the "needle" examinations in last night's bulletin marks the first appearance of a report on the use of surgical instruments in the case.

This, coupled with the information that the king did not have a restful day, shows that the optimism expressed over the king's improvement yesterday may have been somewhat hasty.

24 Persons Killed, Over 200 Injured in Riots on Banana Plantations, Magdalena, Columbia

STRIKE FOLLOWS DISPUTE OVER INSURANCE ITEM

UNCONFIRMED REPORT THAT WIFE OF AN AMERICAN EMPLOYER WAS KILLED

CLASHES NUMEROUS BETWEEN STRIKERS AND FEDERAL SOLDIERS

Bogota, Colombia, Dec. 8.—(UP)—Twenty-four persons have been killed and more than 200 injured in the riots during the last few days on banana plantations in the department of Magdalena, it was announced officially last night. This number includes 15 banana plantation strikers killed in a clash between 2,000 strikers and 200 federal soldiers in Sevilla Thursday night and nine killed in other clashes.

The riots followed a strike of the plantation workers after negotiations for settlement of a dispute between employers and workers over the question of accident insurance had failed.

Unconfirmed reports said the wife of an American employer of the United Fruit Co.'s plantations had been killed during the Thursday night attack in Sevilla.

Companionate Marriage 'Psychologically Dangerous'

Chester, N. Y., Dec. 8.—(U.P.)—Labelling companionate marriage as "psychologically dangerous," the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America meeting here went on record as opposing any type of trial marriage.

The committee on marriage and the home, of which Dr. Worth M. Tippy is secretary, said in its report that "lower ideals are contending for supremacy," but added that "the concept of marriage as a monagamous relationship to be endured till death, still prevails in the United States and should be preserved at any cost."

The report said companionate marriage gives a wrong start to marriage by the ideals it holds before young people. "Instead of the life long companionship which proposes to overcome all difficulties and welcomes children, it starts with self-regarding motives and raises a doubt as to the future. This is psychologically unfortunate and puts marriage on a distinctly low level.

"The committee believes that the effect of companionate marriage would be anti-social. The sex instinct is not to be set free but to be held under control. Marriage should set out to be permanent. Companionate is a noble word but all that it connotes of comradeship exists between every man and woman who are well-mated."

2 BANDITS ARE KILLED IN GUN BATTLE WITH 6 COPS

Indianapolis, Dec. 8.—(U.P.)—Two bandits were killed here today in a gun battle with six policemen who thwarted the attempted robbers of a drygoods and hardware store. Two policemen were wounded slightly in the battle.

The dead were identified as Carl Kittrell, 35, and Otto Price, 35. A third man, believed to have been an accomplice, was captured.

The police squad had been advised of the robbery plan and was waiting with riot guns when the bandits appeared.

SIXTY MILLION TREASURY SURPLUS IS INDICATED

DISPUTE INCREASED APPROPRIATIONS FOR GOVERNMENTAL ACTIVITIES

PREDICTION OF SURPLUS FOR FISCAL YEAR 1930 MADE BY CHAIRMAN ANTHONY

Washington, Dec. 8.—(UP)—A treasury surplus of $60,000,000 for the fiscal year 1930, despite increased appropriations for governmental activities, was predicted today by Chairman Anthony of the house appropriations committee.

Anthony said his committee found it difficult to cut appropriations below the budget estimate but bills had been pared so as to save about $50,000,000 on the budget figures.

He said this does not mean appropriations this year will not exceed the $4,417,000,000 budget as several special items, like tax refunds, additional funds for railway mail contracts and flood relief may increase that total $100,000,000.

"Expenses are certain to mount in the future," he said. "Take the war department for example. Since the war it has been living off the 'fat' left over from the world war but now new supplies and new ammunition are needed."

Anthony said he believed $21,000,000 is sufficient for flood control work this year. He said the supplemental appropriation request for $12,000,000 expected from the treasury for new federal building projects will suffice for 1930.

For the agriculture department, he said, an appropriation of about $61,000,000 will be made, compared to $57,000,000 last year. The increase will be used largely to expand research work and other increased activities.

INNER WORKINGS OF LIQUOR RING ARE EXPOSED

COOK COUNTY LAW ENFORCEMENT REGIME DELVES INTO CHICAGO HEIGHTS

INVESTIGATION FOLLOWS GANGSTER SLAYING OF POLICE CHIEF GILBERT

Chicago, Dec. 8.—(UP) — Inner workings of a liquor syndicate in Chicago Heights, a suburb, were laid bare today as the new Cook county law enforcement regime delved into the slaying of Leroy Gilbert, South Chicago Heights police chief.

Gilbert was shot to death as he sat reading a newspaper in his home Thursday night by hired killers of the syndicate, witnesses at the inquest said they believed.

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen, recently elected with John A. Swanson, new state's attorney, both pledged to clean up Chicago, personally conducted the inquest into Gilbert's death. Bundesen quizzed witnesses far into the night.

Daniel Anderson, assistant United State district attorney, was one of the chief witnesses. He said he had been investigating the rum syndicate since early in October.

"Gilbert gave me valuable information about the inner workings of the gang but said he feared to accuse any of them because of reprisal," Anderson said. "Gilbert told me his predecessor had been in league with the gang."

Dr. Bundesen also was trying to clear up the killing of Thomas Scanlan, printer, who was shot by members of a posse searching for the Gilbert slayers. Dr. Bundesen learned that the posse was made up of a "self constituted police force."

The posse fired into several cars that did not stop when ordered and Scanlan was killed in one of them. Warrants were sworn out last night for five of the posse members by occupants of one of the cars fired on.

Included in the posse were Earl and Glenn Gilbert, brothers of the slain chief.

'INFIRM' MAN SAID TO HAVE KILLED 3 AFTER HIS DISCHARGE

Fort Smith, Ark., Dec. 8.—(U.P.)—Police today were searching for William Howell, discharged inmate of the Crawford county infirmary, who is believed to have killed three persons here last night. A man believed to have been Howell entered the home of Clifford Deffenbaugh, superintendent of the infirmary, and shot to death Deffenbaugh, his wife, and Kim Nicholson, an inmate.

HOOVER GAINS FIRST VIEW OF CHILEAN COAST

MARYLAND HAS ARRIVED OFF ANTOFAGASTA, CHILE, TODAY

THE PRESIDENT-ELECT CONFERS WITH DELEGATION FROM BOLIVIA

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Aboard the U. S. S. Maryland, Dec. 8.—President-elect Herbert Hoover had his first view of the Chilean coast during his goodwill tour of South America today when the Maryland arrived off Antofagasta, Chile.

Mr. Hoover used the opportunity to stop in Antofagasta to confer with a delegation of officials of the Bolivian government, who came from La Paz, capital of Bolivia, for the conference.

David Kauffman, American minister to La Paz, accompanied the officials from La Paz to Antofagasta. Acting Foreign Minister Albert Palacios, of Bolivia, headed the group.

Since leaving the Peruvian port of Callao, the Maryland has been travelling under clear skies. There has been a slight swell of the sea but it was hardly noticeable on a ship the size of the Maryland.

Mr. Hoover has spent most of the last two days resting after the strenuous program in Lima and preparing for an equally strenuous one in Santiago, the Chilean capital.

The stop at Antofagasta is the last one before the Hoover party bids farewell to the Maryland. If the Trans-Andean railway is still tied up by the recent landslides it will be necessary to go to Buenos Aires by way of the Straits of Magellan. Such a route would be rough due to the severe storms in the straits at this time of year.

It is understood that Mr. Hoover has accepted the offer of President Hipolito Irigoyen of Argentina for a battleship to convey the party to Montevideo, Uruguay. At Montevideo, the party will join the U. S. S. Utah.

Aboard the U. S. S. Maryland, Dec. 8.—President-elect Herbert Hoover arrived today off Chile—the third South American country to be visited on his goodwill tour.

The Maryland dropped anchor in the Antofagasta harbor at 10 A. M. and the Bolivian delegation, headed by Acting Foreign Minister Palacios of Bolivia came aboard. A Chilean delegation accompanied the Bolivians.

ST. LOUIS AFFLICTED WITH SMOKE PALL

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 8.—(U.P.)—A smoke pall so dense that it perceptibly impeded open-air breathing and probably rivalled the fringe of a volcanic cloud stifled St. Louis shortly after noon today. The sun was obscured. Smoke-abatement advocates estimated the incident cost the city more than $250,000 in decreased efficiency of workers, and doctor bills.

FRESH QUAKE SHAKES CURICO, CHILE, TODAY

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 8.—(U.P.)—Several houses were damaged in a fresh earthquake which occurred in Curico today. A number of persons were killed in Curico in last week's earthquake. Smaller tremors were felt yesterday in Curico.

$2,000,000 OF NARCOTICS SEIZED IN STEAMER TRUNKS

TO BE USED AS EVIDENCE AGAINST MURDERED NEW YORK GAMBLER

THAT HE WAS "BRAINS" AND FINANCIER OF BIGGEST DRUG RING IN U. S.

New York, Dec. 8.—(UP) — Two million dollars worth of narcotics in two black steamer trunks, seized in a Forty-second street hotel here last night, was locked in a vault for safekeeping today.

The narcotics will be used as evidence that Arnold Rothstein, murdered gambler, was the "brains" and financier of the "biggest drug ring in the United States."

Shortly after the seizure was made by federal agents without the knowledge of police, United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle made the following statement:

"This seizure is a very large fraction of the drug supply of the biggest drug ring in the United States, and the papers we have seized and the evidence in our possession indicate that Arnold Rothstein had to do with arranging and financing of this ring. I anticipate an arrest will be made very shortly and expect to enlist the co-operation of the grand jury on Monday."

New York, Dec. 8.—The arrest of a man in Buffalo and a woman in Chicago in connection with a large narcotics ring of which Arnold Rothstein, murdered gambler, was the alleged financial backer, was announced by U. S. Attorney Charles Tuttle today.

The man, seized by Buffalo police, gave the name of Joseph Myers, New York, but his real name is Joseph Unger, Tuttle said. The woman, arrested by U. S. narcotic agents in the Hotel North Sheridan, Chicago, gave the name of Mrs. June Boyd.

The arrests followed seizure of trunks of narcotics valued at $2,000,000 at a hotel here on a tip received from papers of the Rothmere Corporation, a supposed Rothstein concern.

At the time Tuttle announced the arrests, it was learned that U. S. Commissioner Cotter had issued search warrants presumably for a series of narcotic raids throughout this city today.

Buffalo, Dec. 8. — An important arrest in connection with the nation wide drug ring, allegedly financed by Arnold Rothstein, murdered New York gambler, was made here early today. Federal narcotic officials declined to reveal the name of the prisoner.

New York, Dec. 8.—Three customs agents arrested two men aboard the ferry boat John J. McCooney today and confiscated a Gladstone bag containing seven quart bottles of alleged pure cocaine. The two arrested were William Young and Frank Ramos. Five men with them escaped after a fight with the officers. The customs men said they believed the seven men were part of an organized gang of narcotics carriers.

Senator Couzens Gets Rebate on His 1919 Income Tax Payment

Washington, Dec. 8.—(U.P.)—Senator James Couzens of Michigan received $989,883.49 today from the government.

After eight years of litigation, the treasury department payed him this sum as a rebate on his 1919 income tax, when he paid the government approximately $8,000,000.

Couzens' attorney is to accept the check today in Detroit from the collector of internal revenue.

KELLOGG CONFIDENT ANTI-WAR TREATY WILL BE RATIFIED

Washington, Dec. 8. — (U.P.) — With some senators deliberating whether possible reservations should be made to the Kellogg anti-war treaty, Secretary of State Kellogg said today none had been brought forward in the committee. He appeared confident of ratification without reservations.

David Kauffman, American minister to La Paz, accompanied the officials from La Paz to Antofagasta. Acting Foreign Minister Albert Palacios, of Bolivia, headed the group.

Sin leaving the Peruvian port of Callao, the Maryland has been travelling under clear skies. There has been a slight swell of the sea but it was hardly noticeable on a ship the size of the Maryland.

Mr. Hoover has spent most of the last two days resting after the strenuous program in Lima and preparing for an equally strenuous one in Santiago, the Chilean capital.

The stop at Antofagasta is the last one before the Hoover party bids farewell to the Maryland. If the Trans-Andean railway is still tied up by the recent landslides it will be necessary to go to Buenos Aires by way of the Straits of Magellan. Such a route would be rough due to the severe storms in the straits at this time of year.

It is understood that Mr. Hoover has accepted the offer of President Hipolito Irigoyen of Argentina for a battleship to convey the party to Montevideo, Uruguay. At Montevideo, the party will join the U. S. S. Utah.

Aboard the U. S. S. Maryland, Dec. 8.—President-elect Herbert Hoover arrived today off Chile—the third South American country to be visited on his goodwill tour.

The Maryland dropped anchor in the Antofagasta harbor at 10 A. M. and the Bolivian delegation, headed by Acting Foreign Minister Palacios of Bolivia came aboard. A Chilean delegation accompanied the Bolivians.

ST. LOUIS AFFLICTED WITH SMOKE PALL

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 8.—(U.P.)—A smoke pall so dense that it perceptibly impeded open-air breathing and probably rivalled the fringe of a volcanic cloud stifled St. Louis shortly after noon today. The sun was obscured. Smoke-abatement advocates estimated the incident cost the city more than $250,000 in decreased efficiency of workers, and doctor bills.

FRESH QUAKE SHAKES CURICO, CHILE, TODAY

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 8.—(U.P.)—Several houses were damaged in a fresh earthquake which occurred in Curico today. A number of persons were killed in Curico in last week's earthquake. Smaller tremors were felt yesterday in Curico.

$2,000,000 OF NARCOTICS SEIZED IN STEAMER TRUNKS

TO BE USED AS EVIDENCE AGAINST MURDERED NEW YORK GAMBLER

THAT HE WAS "BRAINS" AND FINANCIER OF BIGGEST DRUG RING IN U. S.

New York, Dec. 8.—(UP) — Two million dollars worth of narcotics in two black steamer trunks, seized in a Forty-second street hotel here last night, was locked in a vault for safekeeping today.

The narcotics will be used as evidence that Arnold Rothstein, murdered gambler, was the "brains" and financier of the "biggest drug ring in the United States."

Shortly after the seizure was made by federal agents without the knowledge of police, United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle made the following statement:

"This seizure is a very large fraction of the drug supply of the biggest drug ring in the United States, and the papers we have seized and the evidence in our possession indicate that Arnold Rothstein had to do with arranging and financing of this ring. I anticipate an arrest will be made very shortly and expect to enlist the co-operation of the grand jury on Monday."

New York, Dec. 8.—The arrest of a man in Buffalo and a woman in Chicago in connection with a large narcotics ring of which Arnold Rothstein, murdered gambler, was the alleged financial backer, was announced by U. S. Attorney Charles Tuttle today.

The man, seized by Buffalo police, gave the name of Joseph Myers, New York, but his real name is Joseph Unger, Tuttle said. The woman, arrested by U. S. narcotic agents in the Hotel North Sheridan, Chicago, gave the name of Mrs. June Boyd.

The arrests followed seizure of trunks of narcotics valued at $2,000,000 at a hotel here on a tip received from papers of the Rothmere Corporation, a supposed Rothstein concern.

At the time Tuttle announced the arrests, it was learned that U. S. Commissioner Cotter had issued search warrants presumably for a series of narcotic raids throughout this city today.

Buffalo, Dec. 8. — An important arrest in connection with the nation wide drug ring, allegedly financed by Arnold Rothstein, murdered New York gambler, was made here early today. Federal narcotic officials declined to reveal the name of the prisoner.

New York, Dec. 8.—Three customs agents arrested two men aboard the ferry boat John J. McCooney today and confiscated a Gladstone bag containing seven quart bottles of alleged pure cocaine. The two arrested were William Young and Frank Ramos. Five men with them escaped after a fight with the officers. The customs men said they believed the seven men were part of an organized gang of narcotics carriers.

Senator Couzens Gets Rebate on His 1919 Income Tax Payment

Washington, Dec. 8.—(U.P.)—Senator James Couzens of Michigan received $989,883.49 today from the government.

After eight years of litigation, the treasury department payed him this sum as a rebate on his 1919 income tax, when he paid the government approximately $8,000,000.

Couzens' attorney is to accept the check today in Detroit from the collector of internal revenue.

KELLOGG CONFIDENT ANTI-WAR TREATY WILL BE RATIFIED

Washington, Dec. 8. — (U.P.) — With some senators deliberating whether possible reservations should be made to the Kellogg anti-war treaty, Secretary of State Kellogg said today none had been brought forward in the committee. He appeared confident of ratification without reservations.

A Service Which Unites the Middle West With the World

During the last half century millions of people have emerged from isolation. Farm homes and prairie villages have been brought into touch with the busy currents of trade and social life. America has been tied together and more closely united with Europe. And the telephone has had a part in this progress.

This Company provides a substantial part of the telephone service in Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, and through the lines of the Bell System, unites the middle west with the rest of this country, Canada, Cuba, Mexico and Europe.

The task of providing a part of the telephone service in these five midwestern states imposes on this Company an obligation to see to it that this service is satisfactory to the user and provided at the lowest cost to the public that is consistent with reasonable wages to employees and a fair return on the actual cost of the property.

A Service Which Unites the Middle West With the World

During the last half century millions of people have emerged from isolation. Farm homes and prairie villages have been brought into touch with the busy currents of trade and social life. America has been tied together and more closely united with Europe. And the telephone has had a part in this progress.

This Company provides a substantial part of the telephone service in Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, and through the lines of the Bell System, unites the middle west with the rest of this country, Canada, Cuba, Mexico and Europe.

The task of providing a part of the telephone service in these five midwestern states imposes on this Company an obligation to see to it that this service is satisfactory to the user and provided at the lowest cost to the public that is consistent with reasonable wages to employees and a fair return on the actual cost of the property.

Two Men Sentenced on Convictions of Carnal Knowledge, Report States

Verdicts of guilty were returned in two illegitimacy cases in district court last month and two men charged with carnal knowledge were arraigned and sentences imposed, according to the November report of Miss Rebecca Cassell, secretary of the County Child Welfare board.

A father who has not been properly supporting his family was arraigned and ordered to pay a definite sum each month for the care of the family. Several boys were received from the juvenile court on probation, all for stealing, the report says.

NEW WHIPPET MODEL IS LARGER, ROOMIER

Fours and Sixes Completely Redesigned, Set New Standard of Beauty in Low Priced Field

"Finger-Tip Control" on New Cars Designated as Great Advance in Driving Convenience

Development of body lines that strike a note of beauty and quality, heretofore found only in cars that sell in the higher price ranges, is seen in Willys-Overland's announcement of its completely redesigned lines of Whippet four and six cylinder cars.

The new car will be on display at the Lake Region Motor Co. tomorrow.

The lowness of the prices on both lines completes the marvel of the achievement.

In presenting the new Whippet fours and sixes, Mr. Willys says:

"When the original Whippet was introduced, designed along lines that entirely revolutionized the light car field, it was predicted that within two years every car manufacturer in the Whippet classification would be forced to adopt the mechanical features first set by the Whippet or be relegated to the obsolete group. This particularly applied to four wheel brakes.

"That these predictions came to pass in less than two years is history, with other car manufacturers both in the low and higher price fields following the trend set by the Whippet.

The advance report that the new models, which are designated as the Superior Whippet, would establish a precedent by bringing beauty and outstanding mechanical features into the low priced field is readily apparent, even in first glance at the striking new cars. They are notable for their larger bodies and increased roominess, while the new type of design with the sparkling color combinations is totally different from anything we have ever seen before in the low price classification.

Outstanding among the features which place the Whippet in a distinctive position, is the new "Finger-Tip Control." By means of an ingenious improvement, all functions of starting the motor, controlling the lighting system and sounding the horn are operated from a single button conveniently located in the center of the steering wheel.

This system was subjected to exhaustive tests and characterized by experts as the greatest driving convenience since the electric self starter.

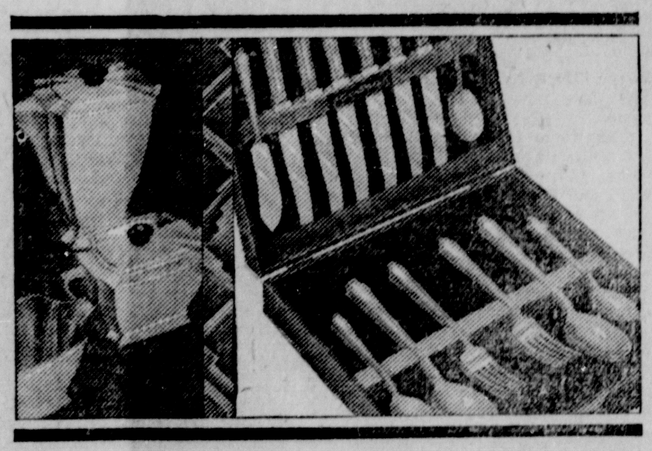

A mere pull up on the button starts the motor. No longer is it necessary for the driver to fumble around with his or her foot in the front of the toe-board groping for the starter button—which often is found in a rather inaccessible place. While this feature will undoubtedly be welcomed by all drivers, it has a special appeal to women.

A distinct safety factor is seen in the control of the lighting system from the same button at the driver's finger-tips. In night traveling the driver is not required to remove a hand from the wheel and reach to the dash to control the lights, the new "Finger-Tip" advancement permitting complete control on the steering wheel.

Although the power plants in both the Whippet four and Whippet Six have shown outstanding speed, power and stamina in the past and have been accepted as the ideal engine in their respective price classes, certain improvements are noted in the power plants now employed to give a much higher speed and power rating although the fundamental principles of design and construction remain unchanged.

Verdicts of guilty were returned in two illegitimacy cases in district court last month and two men charged with carnal knowledge were arraigned and sentences imposed, according to the November report of Miss Rebecca Cassell, secretary of the County Child Welfare board.

A father who has not been properly supporting his family was arraigned and ordered to pay a definite sum each month for the care of the family. Several boys were received from the juvenile court on probation, all for stealing, the report says.

NEW WHIPPET MODEL IS LARGER, ROOMIER

Fours and Sixes Completely Redesigned, Set New Standard of Beauty in Low Priced Field

"Finger-Tip Control" on New Cars Designated as Great Advance in Driving Convenience

Development of body lines that strike a note of beauty and quality, heretofore found only in cars that sell in the higher price ranges, is seen in Willys-Overland's announcement of its completely redesigned lines of Whippet four and six cylinder cars.

The new car will be on display at the Lake Region Motor Co. tomorrow.

The lowness of the prices on both lines completes the marvel of the achievement.

In presenting the new Whippet fours and sixes, Mr. Willys says:

"When the original Whippet was introduced, designed along lines that entirely revolutionized the light car field, it was predicted that within two years every car manufacturer in the Whippet classification would be forced to adopt the mechanical features first set by the Whippet or be relegated to the obsolete group. This particularly applied to four wheel brakes.

"That these predictions came to pass in less than two years is history, with other car manufacturers both in the low and higher price fields following the trend set by the Whippet.

The advance report that the new models, which are designated as the Superior Whippet, would establish a precedent by bringing beauty and outstanding mechanical features into the low priced field is readily apparent, even in first glance at the striking new cars. They are notable for their larger bodies and increased roominess, while the new type of design with the sparkling color combinations is totally different from anything we have ever seen before in the low price classification.

Outstanding among the features which place the Whippet in a distinctive position, is the new "Finger-Tip Control." By means of an ingenious improvement, all functions of starting the motor, controlling the lighting system and sounding the horn are operated from a single button conveniently located in the center of the steering wheel.

This system was subjected to exhaustive tests and characterized by experts as the greatest driving convenience since the electric self starter.

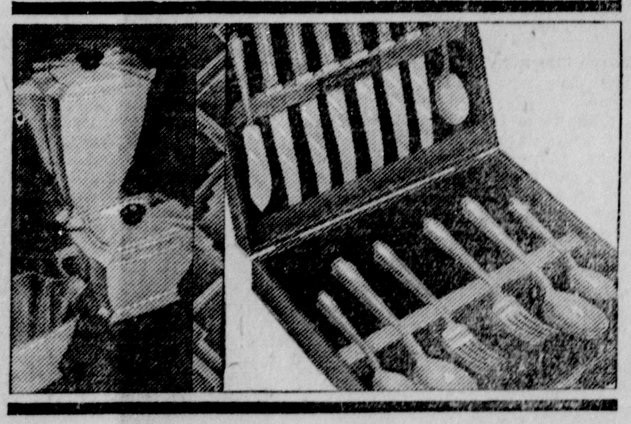

A mere pull up on the button starts the motor. No longer is it necessary for the driver to fumble around with his or her foot in the front of the toe-board groping for the starter button—which often is found in a rather inaccessible place. While this feature will undoubtedly be welcomed by all drivers, it has a special appeal to women.

A distinct safety factor is seen in the control of the lighting system from the same button at the driver's finger-tips. In night traveling the driver is not required to remove a hand from the wheel and reach to the dash to control the lights, the new "Finger-Tip" advancement permitting complete control on the steering wheel.

Although the power plants in both the Whippet four and Whippet Six have shown outstanding speed, power and stamina in the past and have been accepted as the ideal engine in their respective price classes, certain improvements are noted in the power plants now employed to give a much higher speed and power rating although the fundamental principles of design and construction remain unchanged.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1928

GIVES BRAINERD PUBLICITY

OUR friend, John A. Monger, special writer of the Duluth Herald, has given Brainerd wonderful publicity in the Herald issue of December 6. A solid page in that great paper which covers Minnesota, the Dakotas, Wisconsin, Montana, etc., is devoted to an exposition of the material and other resources which give foundation and stability to Brainerd.

Nothing essential seems to have been forgotten by Mr. Monger in his excellent writeup. Brainerd is described in bold headlines as the capital city of Crow Wing county, which county has an area of 951 square miles; 527,385 acres of land, farm land's best, and 81,570 acres of water, beautiful lakes, rivers and trout streams, making Brainerd a gateway to many of Minnesota's Ten Thousand Lakes—in the heart of the Cuyuna iron range—Brainerd enjoys the wealth of a $4,000,000 annual payroll, and average bank deposits of $4,000,000.

The lead article is entitled "Brainerd a Rich City in a Wonderfully Endowed County," and the first paragraph gives an indication of the optimism that it breathes, towit: "A city that has an annual payroll of over $4,000,000 and average bank deposits of $4,000,000 more; with a population of 10,000 and a trading population of 20,000 for twelve months' business and 40,000 during the twelve-week tourist season. The tourist business is estimated at $250,000, Brainerd being the gateway to thirty-five beautiful sunlit lakes under cool Northern skies."

The article on "Dairy Cows and Farm Lands" is a mine of information. "Crow Wing county is entitled to 8,000 new farm home makers" is the conclusion drawn by Mr. Monger. He gives statistics on the creameries of Brainerd and throughout the county.

Illustrations include those of the court house, depot, The Northwest Paper Company mill, banks of the city, etc.

"Brainerd," says Mr. Monger, "has a rich soil area, where the dairy cow produces an annual wealth of a million dollars. Twelve hundred farmers populate the hinterland of Crow Wing county that has an area of 527,385 acres, very fertile, dark brown sandy loam mixed with clay and muck soil, clay subsoil. Clover and timothy are the weeds of the soil, making it an ideal dairying section. Small grains, root crops and grasses have large yields, providing an abundance of feed for the herds.

"The only drawback to Crow Wing county's great importance and prosperity is the lack of improved farms; instead of 1,200 there should be 8,000 farms, and there will be when agriculture is put on the same footing, under the tariff, as the industries."

Mr. Monger's writeups of the various towns and cities, as run in the Duluth Herald, give the credit man of a firm or corporation the vital information on which he can base his credits.

"What is there to this town or that?" is fully answered by Mr. Monger in his illuminating articles, authoritatively and concisely presented.

YOUR R. F. D. MAN

ONE of the best friends the people who live on a rural mail delivery route have is their mail carrier. He is the man who never fails them. Through rain and snow, through cold and heat, he is always on the job, as regularly as human efforts can make it.

He is the faithful and trusted servant. He collects letters and parcels and handles your money which goes through the mails. He is the contact of the patrons of the rural mail routes with the outside world. He is on the job to serve you every day that his duties call him.

The patrons of the routes owe these carriers much for which he never asks or receives pay. The carriers are entitled to much consideration. Soon the cold and snows of winter will be coming on. Do what you can to make it as easy as possible for your rural carrier. Beat a good road through the snow to the mail boxes so that the carrier will not be to any more than necessary inconvenience to deliver your mail and pick up your parcels and letters and postage stamp pennies.

SHOVEL YOUR WALK CLEAR OF SNOW

IT is a sign of good citizenship and also conforms to city ordinances to shovel your walk clear of snow. Some people have unconsciously absorbed the habit, while a few are delinquent and let the snow accumulate and let the people make rabbit tracks to get across the snow wastes.

If you let the snow remain too long, the city has the right to remove it and charge the bill against the abutting property. This has been done not so long ago and produced a great commotion.

The city is removing snow from the business section streets and is plowing residence streets. Citizens should follow the pace set and keep their walks cleared. It looks more like a progressive town to see clean walks.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

CONGRESSMAN MELVIN J. MAAS, re-elected in his St. Paul district, has set a very good example. No sooner was the election over than he hired a number of men and had them go carefully over the district and remove his posted campaign signs.

The custom of politicians in the past has been to show great activity in posting but very little or no action removing the signs after election. Generally it has been the action of wind and weather that eventually removed the placards.

Many streets and highways would look better if all such advertising matter were removed after a campaign.

JUDGE BERT FESLER scored a jury in Brainerd last week for lack of courage in determining a case. All honor to the judge—he did the thing that other courts have failed to do, and is setting a fine example. This beating around the bush by juries, when the evidence is clear, is costing the people a lot of money, is hampering the administration of justice and lending encouragement to the law-breaker.—Deerwood Enterprise.

MANY wondered why Mike Holm seemed to run ahead of the rest of the ticket in so many places. It must be that Mike gets a lot of advertising because he issues the automobile licenses. Anyway a large number must have felt acquainted with him.—Lake City Graphic-Republican.

HARK! the Herald Angels sing, 'Glory to the new-born King!" The Christmas chimes were pealing overhead as Mrs. Peggy Walton hurried past the great department store.

A lump rose in Peggy's throat. Her eyes grew misty. She wondered if all these hurrying Christmas shoppers heard those chimes and felt as she did. Their faces gave no evidence of emotion; but neither did hers, Peggy assured herself.

Communing with herself Peggy thought of other Christmas shopping expeditions when all was joy and anticipation. But that was when Bob was little and the four grandparents and two aunts were all coming for the holiday festivities to the big brick house in the little town. Now Bob was twenty-one, the grandparents had passed away—Grandmother Walton and Grandmother Prentiss had gone just a short time apart the past summer. The two aunts felt as Peggy did, that Christmas memories would be less poignant if they didn't try to have the customary reunion. And instead of the big brick house with its cheery fireplaces, in the friendly little town, they lived in an apartment in the city. Not much Christmas atmosphere about an apartment Peggy reflected.

But something must be done about Christmas for Bob's sake, if for no other reason. It wouldn't seem much like Christmas for Bob to come home from college to just her and Dad.

Peggy had passed beyond the sound of the chimes, but between shopping ventures her mind dwelt constantly on this Christmas problem and what she could do. All their friends had their own families at Christmas, just as they had had theirs until this year.

That brought her back again to the little town and the many changes that had taken place even in the short time they had been gone. Other homes besides theirs would miss the older generation this Christmas. Peggy began enumerating them in her mind.

There was Judge Hatford who had done so much for them when the first break had come and her own father had passed away, and even last summer when her mother, too, had gone, it was Judge Hatford who had taken the sting from the legal aspects. Yet, it was but a few weeks later when he also had been laid to rest in the little cemetery on the hill; then there was genial, courtly Mr. Morrow, and Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, separated from each other but a brief month, and Mr. and Mrs. Dawson—Peggy stopped in her summary. Why hadn't she thought of the Dawsons before? There was Fred Dawson, and Katharine, and their little boy Dick, and Katharine's younger sister, Mary; they, too, must be looking forward to Christmas with sorrowful memories; for always they had come from the far-off city to the home in the litle town for the holidays and now there was no home to which to come.

"It's worse for them than for us. I'll write them at once," Peggy decided. "They're just what we need. Mary and Bob will have a good time. We always enjoy Fred and Katharine. And there's little Dick, bless his heart; a child is what we want to revive the Christmas spirit."

Again Peggy found herself within hearing of the Christmas chimes:

"Joy to the world" was ringing forth as she approached the department store on her homeward way. But there was no lump in her throat this time and her eyes were clear and starry as she gaily hastened along, planning for others and winning for herself A Merry Christmas.

Nancy Carroll got her first big screen chance as a result of a big "kick." The title role in the screen version of this famous play resulted. At the Lyceum Sunday only.

Twelve hundred farmers populate the hinterland of Crow Wing county that has an area of 527,385 acres, very fertile, dark brown sandy loam mixed with clay and muck soil, clay subsoil. Clover and timothy are the weeds of the soil, making it an ideal dairying section. Small grains, root crops and grasses have large yields, providing an abundance of feed for the herds.

"The only drawback to Crow Wing county's great importance and prosperity is the lack of improved farms; instead of 1,200 there should be 8,000 farms, and there will be when agriculture is put on the same footing, under the tariff, as the industries."

Mr. Monger's writeups of the various towns and cities, as run in the Duluth Herald, give the credit man of a firm or corporation the vital information on which he can base his credits.

"What is there to this town or that?" is fully answered by Mr. Monger in his illuminating articles, authoritatively and concisely presented.

YOUR R. F. D. MAN

ONE of the best friends the people who live on a rural mail delivery route have is their mail carrier. He is the man who never fails them. Through rain and snow, through cold and heat, he is always on the job, as regularly as human efforts can make it.

He is the faithful and trusted servant. He collects letters and parcels and handles your money which goes through the mails. He is the contact of the patrons of the rural mail routes with the outside world. He is on the job to serve you every day that his duties call him.

The patrons of the routes owe these carriers much for which he never asks or receives pay. The carriers are entitled to much consideration. Soon the cold and snows of winter will be coming on. Do what you can to make it as easy as possible for your rural carrier. Beat a good road through the snow to the mail boxes so that the carrier will not be to any more than necessary inconvenience to deliver your mail and pick up your parcels and letters and postage stamp pennies.

SHOVEL YOUR WALK CLEAR OF SNOW

IT is a sign of good citizenship and also conforms to city ordinances to shovel your walk clear of snow. Some people have unconsciously absorbed the habit, while a few are delinquent and let the snow accumulate and let the people make rabbit tracks to get across the snow wastes.

If you let the snow remain too long, the city has the right to remove it and charge the bill against the abutting property. This has been done not so long ago and produced a great commotion.

The city is removing snow from the business section streets and is plowing residence streets. Citizens should follow the pace set and keep their walks cleared. It looks more like a progressive town to see clean walks.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

CONGRESSMAN MELVIN J. MAAS, re-elected in his St. Paul district, has set a very good example. No sooner was the election over than he hired a number of men and had them go carefully over the district and remove his posted campaign signs.

The custom of politicians in the past has been to show great activity in posting but very little or no action removing the signs after election. Generally it has been the action of wind and weather that eventually removed the placards.

Many streets and highways would look better if all such advertising matter were removed after a campaign.

JUDGE BERT FESLER scored a jury in Brainerd last week for lack of courage in determining a case. All honor to the judge—he did the thing that other courts have failed to do, and is setting a fine example. This beating around the bush by juries, when the evidence is clear, is costing the people a lot of money, is hampering the administration of justice and lending encouragement to the law-breaker.—Deerwood Enterprise.

MANY wondered why Mike Holm seemed to run ahead of the rest of the ticket in so many places. It must be that Mike gets a lot of advertising because he issues the automobile licenses. Anyway a large number must have felt acquainted with him.—Lake City Graphic-Republican.

HARK! the Herald Angels sing, 'Glory to the new-born King!'" The Christmas chimes were pealing overhead as Mrs. Peggy Walton hurried past the great department store.

A lump rose in Peggy's throat. Her eyes grew misty. She wondered if all these hurrying Christmas shoppers heard those chimes and felt as she did. Their faces gave no evidence of emotion; but neither did hers, Peggy assured herself.

Communing with herself Peggy thought of other Christmas shopping expeditions when all was joy and anticipation. But that was when Bob was little and the four grandparents and two aunts were all coming for the holiday festivities to the big brick house in the little town. Now Bob was twenty-one, the grandparents had passed away—Grandmother Walton and Grandmother Prentiss had gone just a short time apart the past summer. The two aunts felt as Peggy did, that Christmas memories would be less poignant if they didn't try to have the customary reunion. And instead of the big brick house with its cheery fireplaces, in the friendly little town, they lived in an apartment in the city. Not much Christmas atmosphere about an apartment Peggy reflected.

But something must be done about Christmas for Bob's sake, if for no other reason. It wouldn't seem much like Christmas for Bob to come home from college to just her and Dad.

Peggy had passed beyond the sound of the chimes, but between shopping ventures her mind dwelt constantly on this Christmas problem and what she could do. All their friends had their own families at Christmas, just as they had had theirs until this year.

Peggy Had Passed Beyond the Sound of the Chimes.

That brought her back again to the little town and the many changes that had taken place even in the short time they had been gone. Other homes besides theirs would miss the older generation this Christmas. Peggy began enumerating them in her mind.

There was Judge Hatford who had done so much for them when the first break had come and her own father had passed away, and even last summer when her mother, too, had gone, it was Judge Hatford who had taken the sting from the legal aspects. Yet, it was but a few weeks later when he also had been laid to rest in the little cemetery on the hill; then there was genial, courtly Mr. Morrow, and Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, separated from each other but a brief month, and Mr. and Mrs. Dawson—Peggy stopped in her summary. Why hadn't she thought of the Dawsons before? There was Fred Dawson, and Katharine, and their little boy Dick, and Katharine's younger sister, Mary; they, too, must be looking forward to Christmas with sorrowful memories; for always they had come from the far-off city to the home in the litle town for the holidays and now there was no home to which to come.

"It's worse for them than for us. I'll write them at once," Peggy decided. "They're just what we need. Mary and Bob will have a good time. We always enjoy Fred and Katharine. And there's little Dick, bless his heart; a child is what we want to revive the Christmas spirit."

Again Peggy found herself within hearing of the Christmas chimes:

"Joy to the world" was ringing forth as she approached the department store on her homeward way. But there was no lump in her throat this time and her eyes were clear and starry as she gaily hastened along, planning for others and winning for herself A Merry Christmas.

To the person out of tune with life, Christmas may mean a wearisome duty, a bestowing of gifts on indifferent people, receiving in return things of incredible unsuitability for which he must write notes of imitation thanks.

Big "Kick" Starts Screen Star

Nancy Carroll got her first big screen chance as a result of a big "kick." She was in the midst of an argument with the doorman at the Paramount studios when Anne Nichols, author of the famous "Abie's Irish Rose," who was passing, was attracted by her waving red hair and her flashing blue eyes. The title role in the screen version of this famous play resulted. At the Lyceum Sunday only.

IF PLANS OF BIG TEN CHIEFS ARE SUCCESSFUL

MOVE TO TAKE FROM SPECTATORS AMERICAN PRIVILEGE OF "RAZZING" OFFICIALS

ONE GREAT UNIVERSITY, ILLINOIS, HAS ALREADY ADOPTED SPORTSMANSHIP CODE

By DIXON STEWART

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Personal liberty is due to suffer another shock if plans of the Big Ten conference athletic chiefs are successful in their move to take from spectators the great American privilege of "razzing" sport officials.

One great university—Illinois—already has adopted a sportsmanship code which forbids the "booing" of officials at athletic contests. Such an attempt is certain to bring forth protest, but the movement is well organized.

"Handing the razzberry" to arbiters in all lines of sports long has been a custom in America. Any suggestion to eliminate the "razzberry" has been greeted by laughter.

Coaches of all sports agreed that the rule has become a necessity and declared that unless it is adopted rowdyism seems likely to kill athletics. Booing of basketball officials during recent seasons has been so prevalent that it was feared riots would develop.

While the majority of athletic leaders interviewed on the subject expressed doubt that razzing of officials can be eliminated entirely they are anxious to try the experiment and general adoption of the Illinois code is likely.

"In order to end the booing of officials, we need a squad of enforcement officials bigger than the prohibition department," one coach declared, "but schools should be able to control their own students."

Other coaches commented in a similar vein, all agreeing that the non-booing rule was worthy of a trial.

Prohibition agents were familiar figures at conference football games during the past season.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Although western conference athletic rulers voted last night to bar competition between Big Ten schools and institutions not observing standards of athletic ethics and control identical with those of the conference, this ruling will not affect games with the Army, Navy or Notre Dame.

A special exception was made providing that the service schools be exempted from the ruling. Notre Dame already follows the same code as Big Ten schools.

HUNTERS MISTAKE TAME GEESE FOR WILD ONES---YDE

Tame geese and not wild ones were shot by two hunters near the Stoner Dam recently, Harold Yde, of Sylvan, owner of the fowl reported to the Brainerd Dispatch yesterday.

Mr. Yde stated that he had raised the geese but that a day before the shooting the birds had escaped from the Yde farm. It was while the birds were near the Stoner Dam that two hunters shot them.

The owner was at a loss just to know what to do about the situation and whether he could "collect" for the value of the birds.

Another practice on the same floor is expected before the Brainerd high cagers enter their first cheduled game of the season, Friday, December 14, at Aitkin.

Crosby-Ironton opened the season last evening on their home floor by defeating Staples, 36 to 24.

A Rising Star

By QUIN HALL.

AFTER the few seasons that the game of ice hockey has been played professionally in the United States, it is safe to predict that the game has come to stay. Starting off with a weak hurrah the fierceness and speed of the sport have appealed to the fans and the turnstiles at most of the rinks where the so-called big league teams operate are clicking merrily.

While the game may not spread quite as rapidly as baseball, golf or football, it has caught on remarkably well and probably the only thing that keeps the boys from having "sand lot" games is the scarcity of ice. The game came into the States over the Canadian border and for a good many years ice hockey has been a national pastime of Canada, where the Winters are long enough and severe enough to make the game highly popular.

Most of the players now working in the big leagues are Canadian born but the youngsters who hang around the rinks and fight over discarded hockey sticks make it seem possible that before many years there will be plenty of U. S. born timber to carry on. Many of the high schools and colleges throughout the country are also taking up the sport and this, too, will not only add to its popularity but furnish good players for the future.

Canada will naturally be the main stamping ground for talent and the "ivory hunters" for the big league teams will continue to do most of their scouting and their bartering on the other side of the border.

With the game established, young players are already in demand. Some of the fellows who helped inaugurate the sport on a paying basis here have reached the peak of their form and it won't be long before quite a number of the present stars will be referred to as the old guard. Hockey is a strenuous sport and, as such, it demands youth.

Some of the big league teams have already adopted the baseball idea of having "farms" for the youngsters who show promise. These teams are operated in smaller cities, and hold a position very similar to the minor leagues in baseball. As in baseball, it is likely that these spots will also be the haven for the big hockey stars of today when they start to slow up. In this manner the "minors" will always be assured of good games, because usually there is plenty of pep left in a fellow after he slows up too much for the big top.

In addition to the so-called minors every team has its youthful stars who are being carried along with the team and constantly coached to take the places of the older fellows when they start to weaken.

The Ottawa Senators, champions of the hockey world year before last, have an especially promising youngster in Hector Kilrea. They also have two other youngsters in Frank Finnegan, whose name smacks of Notre Dame football, and "Len" Grosvenor. On the veteran side they have Frank Nighbor, who ranks as one of the greatest centers of all time; "Ping" Clancy, sensational defense man, and George Boucher, one of the headiest guards on the circuit.

Kilrea, especially, looks very promising and it is probable that he will be seen in plenty of action during the present year. From as early as last season "Hec" was a big asset to the Senators, as the records show that he dented the mesh 19 times and aided in four other goals. Such a record for a stripling is commendable, and while there may be other promising youngsters over the circuit, it is a certainty that at least in the Canadian Division, Kilrea, and Finnegan, too, rate the class and deserve it.

The Sentaors are fortunate in having a man of the Nighbor type, one who is not only a great player but is willing to deal out sagacious advice to the youngsters who are just making their bid for fame. Both Kilrea and Finnegan are soaking up that advice and they're bound shortly to shine as full-fledged stars.

IF PLANS OF BIG TEN CHIEFS ARE SUCCESSFUL

MOVE TO TAKE FROM SPECTATORS AMERICAN PRIVILEGE OF "RAZZING" OFFICIALS

ONE GREAT UNIVERSITY, ILLINOIS, HAS ALREADY ADOPTED SPORTSMANSHIP CODE

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Personal liberty is due to suffer another shock if plans of the Big Ten conference athletic chiefs are successful in their move to take from spectators the great American privilege of "razzing" sport officials.

One great university—Illinois — already has adopted a sportsmanship code which forbids the "booing" of officials at athletic contests. Such an attempt is certain to bring forth protest, but the movement is well organized.

"Handing the razzberry" to arbiters in all lines of sports long has been a custom in America. Any suggestion to eliminate the "razzberry" has been greeted by laughter.

Coaches of all sports agreed that the rule has become a necessity and declared that unless it is adopted rowdyism seems likely to kill athletics. Booing of basketball officials during recent seasons has been so prevalent that it was feared riots would develop.

While the majority of athletic leaders interviewed on the subject expressed doubt that razzing of officials can be eliminated entirely they are anxious to try the experiment and general adoption of the Illinois code is likely.

"In order to end the booing of officials, we need a squad of enforcement officials bigger than the prohibition department," one coach declared, "but schools should be able to control their own students."

Other coaches commented in a similar vein, all agreeing that the non-booing rule was worthy of a trial.

Prohibition agents were familiar figures at conference football games during the past season.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Although western conference athletic rulers voted last night to bar competition between Big Ten schools and institutions not observing standards of athletic ethics and control identical with those of the conference, this ruling will not affect games with the Army, Navy or Notre Dame.

A special exception was made providing that the service schools be exempted from the ruling. Notre Dame already follows the same code as Big Ten schools.

HUNTERS MISTAKE TAME GEESE FOR WILD ONES---YDE

Tame geese and not wild ones were shot by two hunters near the Stoner Dam recently, Harold Yde, of Sylvan, owner of the fowl reported to the Brainerd Dispatch yesterday.

Mr. Yde stated that he had raised the geese but that a day before the shooting the birds had escaped from the Yde farm. It was while the birds were near the Stoner Dam that two hunters shot them.

The owner was at a loss just to know what to do about the situation and whether he could "collect" for the value of the birds.

A Rising Star

By QUIN HALL.

AFTER the few seasons that the game of ice hockey has been played professionally in the United States, it is safe to predict that the game has come to stay. Starting off with a weak hurrah the fierceness and speed of the sport have appealed to the fans and the turnstiles at most of the rinks where the so-called big league teams operate are clicking merrily.

While the game may not spread quite as rapidly as baseball, golf or football, it has caught on remarkably well and probably the only thing that keeps the boys from having "sand lot" games is the scarcity of ice. The game came into the States over the Canadian border and for a good many years ice hockey has been a national pastime of Canada, where the Winters are long enough and severe enough to make the game highly popular.

Most of the players now working in the big leagues are Canadian born but the youngsters who hang around the rinks and fight over discarded hockey sticks make it seem possible that before many years there will be plenty of U. S. born timber to carry on. Many of the high schools and colleges throughout the country are also taking up the sport and this, too, will not only add to its popularity but furnish good players for the future.

Canada will naturally be the main stamping ground for talent and the "ivory hunters" for the big league teams will continue to do most of their scouting and their bartering on the other side of the border.

With the game established, young players are already in demand. Some of the fellows who helped inaugurate the sport on a paying basis here have reached the peak of their form and it won't be long before quite a number of the present stars will be referred to as the old guard. Hockey is a strenuous sport and, as such, it demands youth.

Some of the big league teams have already adopted the baseball idea of having "farms" for the youngsters who show promise. These teams are operated in smaller cities, and hold a position very similar to the minor leagues in baseball. As in baseball, it is likely that these spots will also be the haven for the big hockey stars of today when they start to slow up. In this manner the "minors" will always be assured of good games, because usually there is plenty of pep left in a fellow after he slows up too much for the big top.

In addition to the so-called minors every team has its youthful stars who are being carried along with the team and constantly coached to take the places of the older fellows when they start to weaken.

The Ottawa Senators, champions of the hockey world year before last, have an especially promising youngster in Hector Kilrea. They also have two other youngsters in Frank Finnegan, whose name smacks of Notre Dame football, and "Len" Grosvenor. On the veteran side they have Frank Nighbor, who ranks as one of the greatest centers of all time; "Ping" Clancy, sensational defense man, and George Boucher, one of the headiest guards on the circuit.

Kilrea, especially, looks very promising and it is probable that he will be seen in plenty of action during the present year. From as early as last season "Hec" was a big asset to the Senators, as the records show that he dented the mesh 19 times and aided in four other goals. Such a record for a stripling is commendable, and while there may be other promising youngsters over the circuit, it is a certainty that at least in the Canadian Division, Kilrea, and Finnegan, too, rate the class and deserve it.

The Sentaors are fortunate in having a man of the Nighbor type, one who is not only a great player but is willing to deal out sagacious advice to the youngsters who are just making their bid for fame. Both Kilrea and Finnegan are soaking up that advice and they're bound shortly to shine as full-fledged stars.

RANGERS CHECK TREE SHIPMENT

Forestry Department Here Makes First Arrest in Christmas Tree Season

OTHER ARRESTS PENDING

Notices Must be Posted Before Timber is Cut and Reports Made

At the request of State Forester Conzet urging a closer check up by all forestry employees on the promiscuous cutting and illegal transportation of Christmas trees in the state, local forest officers made their first arrest of the season on this charge when a warrant was sworn out before Judge B. J. Johnson of Crosby for C. E. Johnson of Minneapolis, charging transportation of Christmas trees, evergreen or coniferous, without a written permit from owner of the land on which the trees were cut.

Mr. Johnson entered a plea of guilty, sentence to be imposed later.

A complaint was also filed by the local forest ranger against Joseph Myers of Perry Lake township of whom C. E. Johnson claims to have purchased trees for failure to make a written report of the cutting to the state forester at St. Paul by registered letter and post camp buildings or northwest corner of forty on which cutting was done as required by Section 18, Chapter 407, laws of 1925.

A number of other prosecutions are to be made shortly by the forest rangers on similar charges and it would be well for any person contemplating the cutting or transportation of any timber or Christmas trees to read carefully the provisions of the following sections:

Section 18. Before any person shall cut, or cause to be cut, any timber upon any land in, upon or adjoining any forest or wild land area within this state, such person shall post in a conspicuous place in some camp building on the premises where such cutting is to be done (or if there be no such building then on and at the northwest corner of each forty acre governmental subdivision or at the nearest corresponding point in each fractional subdivision of such lands) a notice in the English language containing the same and post office address of such person, and also containing a full description of all the lands upon which such cutting is to be done, designating the same by each forty acre governmental subdivision or fraction thereof with the proper section, town, and range; which said notice shall be kept continuously so posted during the entire time that such cutting is being done. And each year before any such timber is cut, such person shall send a true and correct copy of each such notice, together with a statement of the kind of products proposed to be cut, and who is to be responsible for the disposal of slashings and debris resulting from such cutting by registered letter, properly enveloped, sealed, postage prepaid, and addressed to the State Forester, Old State Capitol Building, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Section 1. No person shall cut, remove or transport for decorative purposes or for sale, in its natural condition and untrimmed, any growing pine, cedar, evergreen or coniferous tree, brush, sapling or shrub (except nursery stock) without the written consent of the owner of the land on which the same is grown, whether such land be publicly or privately owned. Such written consent shall contain the legal description of the land where such tree, bush, or sapling or shrub was cut, as well as the name of the legal owner thereof, and if not recorded in the office of the proper register or deeds, shall be carried by the person cutting, removing or transporting any such trees, bushes, saplings or shrubs untrimmed or in their natural condition, and shall be exhibited to any officer of the law at his request at any time. Failure to so exhibit such written consent shall be prima facie evidence that no such consent was given or exists.

Peaks of Desire

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JERRY DUNN, reporter, falls in love with Ann Tremaine, wealthy debutante. He takes her to live at his boarding house, and introduces her to a new world. She is attracted to Steve Harrison, a husky young mechanic of whom Jerry is jealous. Ann gets a job in a small theatre owned by Nick Pagalos, and later asks her employer to hire Steve. One night Pagalos makes love to Ann, and in the battle which ensues between him and Steve, the Greek is made to realize his error. That night Steve confesses his love to Ann, and they embrace. Steve leaves his job to go into the trucking business. In the meantime Jerry Dunn returns from a trip and tells Ann he is no longer heartbroken over her. While they are chatting Maizie Thompson, an ex-sweetheart of Steve's, appears. She accuses Ann of having stolen Steve from her. Ann denies this and is about to leave Maizie and Jerry together, when Steve himself knocks.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXV.

HAD Steve been standing outside in the hall listening to them through the door? immediately, all doubt was dispelled.

"I thought I heard Maizie's voice down here and I come to find what it's all about," he said harshly.

His wide form almost blocked the door and Ann drew back into the room.

About his sudden appearance was an abruptness that momentarily seemed to paralyze thought in the two girls. Ranged side by side Jerry saw them as utter contrasts, yet each was attracted to the same man. Maizie was the power to stir his sympathy; his observant eye took in the tawdry attempt at prettiness, the pathetic effort to be trim and smart, the cheap satin dress and a brassy ring on one of the slim fingers. She was a blonde but she made too much of her hair and frizzed it. He saw Ann, her dark, luminous eyes gazing out of unplummed depths of thought and feeling. About her was an economy of movement and expression; hidden forces smoldered in unexplored caverns of her nature, but externally she was poised, self-contained, aloof. There was no girl on earth like her—she made a surging power move within him, a mysterious stimulation of the imagination. He needed her in his life to give tone and timbre to his whole existence.

Steve Harrison stood there, muscled like a horse, looking at them. Built for toil. An animal of strength capable of appealing to a vast majority of women in a far greater degree than Jerry Dunn. An appeal that belonged to the human race and extended clear back through the animal kingdom. The force of mind and spirit belonged to a higher stage of evolution; the pull of Steve belonged to the fundamental basis of blood and nerve and bone.

"You come in here raising trouble," Steve said to Maizie.

Her voice had the supppressed courage of desperation. "I wanted to find out what it's all about, Steve. I didn't want to raise trouble—I just wanted to know——?"

"Come inside," said Jerry to Steve, who complied.

"I'm sorry all this come up," Steve said, turning to Ann. "If Maizie got a nutty idea I love her it ain't my fault. We got to going around together and I treated her nice. I gave her money and bought her a few things, and she didn't have to do anything to earn it so far as I was concerned. I didn't lead her on and promise to marry—I just treated her right. What she had in her own mind I ain't responsible for. I was lonesome, and if she tells the truth she'll admit she was going around with a pretty bad bunch when I picked her up. What I object to is her coming here and misrepresenting me in front of people like you and Mr. Dunn."

Maizie was crying. "I didn't come here to lie about you, Steve—you treated me swell——"

"I didn't want to give you any the worst of it, Maizie, and I was figuring on dropping out of the picture," he told her. "No third party had a thing on earth to do with it. We just don't click. Maybe it's for the best that we have it out this way, frank and above board. There's no use of you going on and carrying around a lot of false ideas. Maybe I should have told you sooner—but I thought it was easier for all concerned if I just faded away."

"You're so heartless," Maizie sobbed.

"No, I'm not heartless," Steve said with awkward heaviness. "This hurts me as much as it does you. On the level, Maizie, you could have anything I got if it made you feel any better—but you've got to see how it stands. It ain't easy for me, either, to talk about things like this in front of people——"

"That ought to tell you all you want to know, Maizie," Jerry said softly. "You can see that Ann here is not to blame. It would have happened if she had never been born on earth. You and Steve just weren't meant for each other——"

Maizie Thompson got up; her face was still white and her lips were twisted as she moved toward the door. Then, suddenly, she seemed to collapse and threw herself on the sofa, her whole body racked with sobs. No one touched her.

Ann's voice came hushed. "Poor thing."

"Let me handle her," Steve said secretly to Jerry and Ann. "I'll snap her out of it."

"Look here, kid—where do you get this stuff pulling a stunt like this."

"Get next to yourself—these people don't want you weeping all over the place. Come on now, straighten up and get out of here!" He spoke brutally for a purpose, yet he was half in earnest.

Jerry moved swiftly across the room and sat down beside Maizie. "Wait a minute," he said to her decisively. "You don't have to get out of here until you're good and ready. This is my place and right now I don't think you're in a condition to go wandering around. You just stay here as long as you want and quiet down. I'll see that you get home O. K. myself."

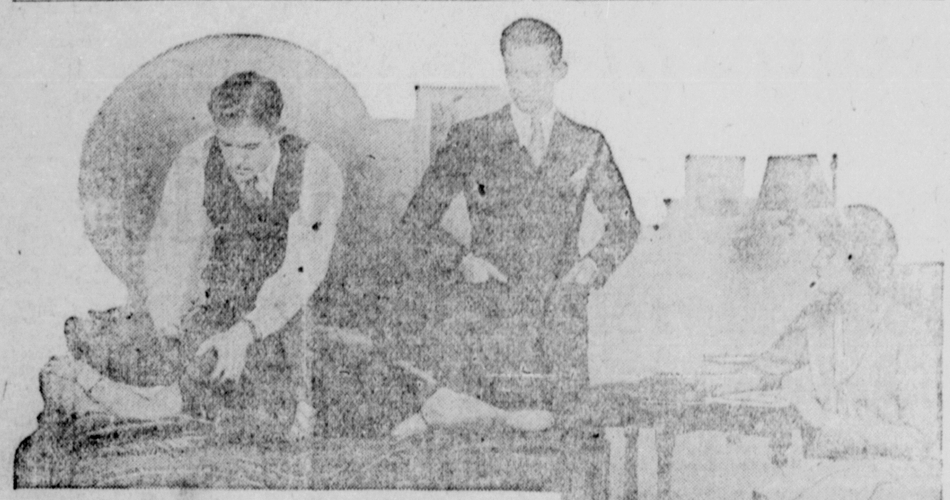

Her voice was muffled and her head was buried in her arms. "You're the only one . . . that's good to me . . ."

Jerry gave her a pat on the shoulder and got up to face Steve and Ann.

"You folks had better go off and let me handle her," he said. "The poor kid's in a terribly nervous state and it's no good getting rough with her."

"I've done my best," Steve said. "I'll leave the rest to you."

(To Be Continued.)

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JERRY DUNN, reporter, falls in love with Ann Tremaine, wealthy debutante. He takes her to live at his boarding house, and introduces her to a new world. She is attracted to Steve Harrison, a husky young mechanic of whom Jerry is jealous. Ann gets a job in a small theatre owned by Nick Pagalos, and later asks her employer to hire Steve. One night Pagalos makes love to Ann, and in the battle which ensues between him and Steve, the Greek is made to realize his error. That night Steve confesses his love to Ann, and they embrace. Steve leaves his job to go into the trucking business. In the meantime Jerry Dunn returns from a trip and tells Ann he is no longer heartbroken over her. While they are chatting Maizie Thompson, an ex-sweetheart of Steve's, appears. She accuses Ann of having stolen Steve from her. Ann denies this and is about to leave Maizie and Jerry together, when Steve himself knocks.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXV.

HAD Steve been standing outside in the hall listening to them through the door? immediately, all doubt was dispelled.

"I thought I heard Maizie's voice down here and I come to find what it's all about," he said harshly.

His wide form almost blocked the door and Ann drew back into the room.

About his sudden appearance was an abruptness that momentarily seemed to paralyze thought in the two girls. Ranged side by side Jerry saw them as utter contrasts, yet each was attracted to the same man. Maizie was the power to stir his sympathy; his observant eye took in the tawdry attempt at prettiness, the pathetic effort to be trim and smart, the cheap satin dress and a brassy ring on one of the slim fingers. She was a blonde but she made too much of her hair and frizzed it. He saw Ann, her dark, luminous eyes gazing out of unplummed depths of thought and feeling. About her was an economy of movement and expression; hidden forces smoldered in unexplored caverns of ner nature, but externally she was poised, self-contained, aloof. There was no girl on earth like her—she made a surging power move within him, a mysterious stimulation of the imagination. He needed her in his life to give tone and timbre to his whole existence.

Steve Harrison stood there, muscled like a horse, looking at them. Built for toil. An animal of strength capable of appealing to a vast majority of women in a far greater degree than Jerry Dunn. An appeal that belonged to the human race and extended clear back through the animal kingdom. The force of mind and spirit belonged to a higher stage of evolution; the pull of Steve belonged to the fundamental basis of blood and nerve and bone.

"You come in here raising trouble," Steve said to Maizie.

Her voice had the supppressed courage of desperation. "I wanted to find out what it's all about, Steve. I didn't want to raise trouble—I just wanted to know——?"

"Come inside," said Jerry to Steve, who complied.

"I'm sorry all this come up," Steve said, turning to Ann. "If Maizie got a nutty idea I love her it ain't my fault. We got to going around together and I treated her nice. I gave her money and bought her a few things, and she didn't have to do anything to earn it so far as I was concerned. I didn't lead her on and promise to marry—I just treated her right. What she had in her own mind I ain't responsible for. I was lonesome, and if she tells the truth she'll admit she was going around with a pretty bad bunch when I picked her up. What I object to is her coming here and misrepresenting me in front of people like you and Mr. Dunn."

Maizie was crying. "I didn't come here to lie about you, Steve—you treated me swell——"

"I didn't want to give you any the worst of it, Maizie, and I was figuring on dropping out of the picture," he told her. "No third party had a thing on earth to do with it. We just don't click. Maybe it's for the best that we have it out this way, frank and above board. There's no use of you going on and carrying around a lot of false ideas. Maybe I should have told you sooner—but I thought it was easier for all concerned if I just faded away."

"You're so heartless," Maizie sobbed.

"No, I'm not heartless," Steve said with awkward heaviness. "This hurts me as much as it does you. On the level, Maizie, you could have anything I got if it made you feel any better—but you've got to see how it stands. It ain't easy for me, either, to talk about things like this in front of people——"

"That ought to tell you all you want to know, Maizie," Jerry said softly. "You can see that Ann here is not to blame. It would have happened if she had never been born on earth. You and Steve just weren't meant for each other——"

Maizie Thompson got up; her face was still white and her lips were twisted as she moved toward the door. Then, suddenly, she seemed to collapse and threw herself on the sofa, her whole body racked with sobs. No one touched her.

Ann's voice came hushed. "Poor thing."

"Let me handle her," Steve said secretly to Jerry and Ann. "I'll snap her out of it."

"Look here, kid—where do you get this stuff pulling a stunt like this."

"Get next to yourself—these people don't want you weeping all over the place. Come on now, straighten up and get out of here!" He spoke brutally for a purpose, yet he was half in earnest.

Jerry moved swiftly across the room and sat down beside Maizie. "Wait a minute," he said to her decisively. "You don't have to get out of here until you're good and ready. This is my place and right now I don't think you're in a condition to go wandering around. You just stay here as long as you want and quiet down. I'll see that you get home O. K. myself."

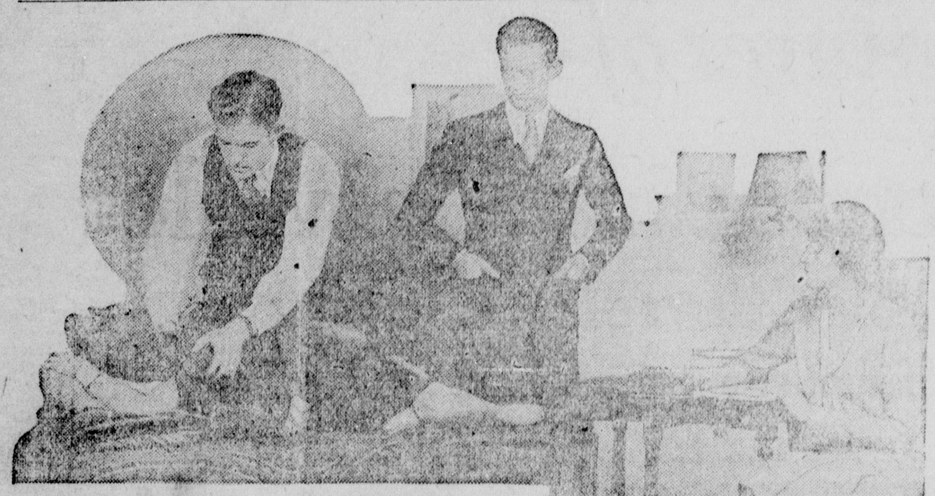

Her voice was muffled and her head was buried in her arms. "You're the only one . . . that's good to me . . ."

Jerry gave her a pat on the shoulder and got up to face Steve and Ann.

"You folks had better go off and let me handle her," he said. "The poor kid's in a terribly nervous state and it's no good getting rough with her."

"I've done my best," Steve said. "I'll leave the rest to you."
